Message From The Chair's Office

Please welcome the newest faculty members in the Division of Pulmonary, Allergy and Critical Care Medicine.

Jaime Hook, MD Instructor in Medicine at CUMC

Subspecialty: Lung Transplant Program in the Division of Pulmonary, Allergy, and Critical Care Medicine

Where are you from? Milwaukee, Wisconsin

What track are you in? Research

Current Project: Live imaging of the intact lung to determine how bacteria causes acute lung injury.

Anil J. Trindade, MD Assistant Professor of Medicine

Subspecialty: Division of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine, Medical ECMO Program, Lung Transplantation Program

Where are you from? I was born in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, but spent the majority of my life growing up in Princeton Junction, NJ. More recently I completed my pulmonary fellowship training in Boston, MA at the Harvard Combined Program at Massachusetts General Hospital, Brigham and Women's Hospital and Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center. I stayed on as an attending at Brigham and Women's and North Shore Medical Center in Salem, MA.

What track are you in? I'm primarily in the clinical track, though I look forward to participating in clinical and translational research projects.

Current Project: Identifying the role of dysregulated microRNA expression in acute respiratory distress syndrome (ARDS).
